Display Set Up.

The table above shows the firework site layout and firing times. The rows should be approximately 1 - 2 meters apart to allow you to move between the fireworks. The left and right columns should be approx 15 - 25 meters either side of the centre row (space permitting). If you don't have enough depth in your display site for each row, lay down half then start from the front again.

Times are shown as a guide and if fired as per the table above should result in a professional, choreographed display with no gaps. Of course, if you want your display to last longer then you could always fire the pairs of cakes and multiple candles one after the other with one centre line. This would extend the duration of the display to approx. 15 minutes, still with no gaps. If you would prefer to light a firework, enjoy it, then put the next one out and light it and so on, then this pack would last over an hour
